Dear Professor Encarnacao

Testimonial for Haralabos Vezirgenidis

I knew Haralabos Vezirgenidis ("Harry") in my capacity as Course Tutor since he took up a full-time place on this course in October 1993. As one of only 5 full-time students in that academic year, I came to know him quite well through tutorials, studio teaching, and informal conversation.

He obtained his MA Degree in October 1994. He showed great diligence and thoroughness in his research and competence in the practical work which made up more than 80% of the course. He had a particular interest in user interface design and applied this interest to the design of interfaces for interactive television in his project and dissertation.

Harry made good use of English (his second language) in written work and exhibited a good grasp of graphic design principles in his practical work. In my view he is capable of undertaking research leading to the award of a doctorate (PhD level in the UK). Had he remained in the UK on completion of his masters' programme I am sure he would have obtained a research post in a university here.

Students on our programme are encouraged to share ideas and to help each other with technical problems and Harry proved a co-operative, useful and popular member of the 1993/4 cohort despite being in an unfamiliar environment. I am therefore sure he would function well in a team. He is a studious and quiet person but reveals a wry sense of humour on closer acquaintance.

I have no hesitation in recommending Harry as a researcher in the area of computer user interfaces. If you have any further queries, you can contact me or leave a message on one of the numbers below. Please note that I will be on leave from Wednesday 9 August to Monday 4 September and that I am otherwise only in the School Monday through Wednesday.

Yours sincerely
